RULES.

Every resident of Melrose, of the age of twenty-one years, shall have the right to take books from the Library, on signing the Rules adopted by the Trustees, and conforming thereto.

Each member of the family of such resident, above the age of twelve years, shall also have the same right, if the father, brother, guardian, or other friend of said person, shall, by signing a form of guarantee prepared by the Trustees, become responsible for the same.

Any person temporarily residing in Melrose may have the use of the Library by depositing with the librarian the value of the book taken, or by procuring a guarantee of responsibility from some citizen.

The Trustees may grant the use of the Library to any responsible person, under special circumstances.

Only one book at a time can be taken from the Library, and no book to be retained longer than two weeks, under a fine of two cents a day for each day thereafter.

Damage done to any book to be paid at the appraisal of the Trustees; as also the value of any book not returned within two months after the time for which it was taken shall have expired.

Books are to be refused to all when they are not taken care of in a proper manner.

All books shall be returned to the Library at least one week before the annual examination, under a penalty of one dollar for detention. Said examination to be held in March, and due notice to be given of the same.

TRUSTEES.
